ABOUT US

Indira Gandhi Delhi Technical University for Women

Indira Gandhi Delhi Technical University for Women, formerly known as IGIT, is the first all-women engineering university in South Asia. It has been ranked first among the emerging engineering colleges of India.

1

IGDTUW was established as an independent university in May 2013, with the purpose of bringing forward women in the field of technology and management and fostering an environment for excellence.

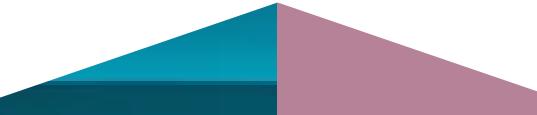

2

The objective of the university is to foster industry-relevant research and innovations and help to enable women to become future leaders, managers, researchers and team players in the field of science, technology and management.

JOURNEY TO TAARANGANA

TAARANGANA

After 8 massively successful editions, the cultural extravaganza is all set to come back in February with its 9th edition - Taarangana'22. Taarangana is the annual cultural fest of IGDTUW; one of the most awaited cultural events in Delhi.

Taarangana is a spectacle to behold. It witnesses a gathering of zealous students from various colleges across the city who meet, mingle, share artistic and intellectual interests while making precious memories.

Via a wide variety of events in the fields of music, dance, theatre, and other artistic domains, this two days' cultural blast offers innovative students an opportunity and platform to showcase their stupendous talents, turning the campus into an ocean of culture, excitement, and opportunities.

The main aim of Taarangana has always been to bring out the best of talents and showcase them to the world, even the pandemic itself couldn't hinder this goal.
